DR. CHRIS TEUTSCH

Dr. Chris Teutsch is an Extension forage specialist at University of Kentucky, where he works with farmers to address production issues related to harvested forages, pasture management, and grazing.

Many of you know Chris from his many years serving Virginia's forage community at the Southern Piedmont Agricultural Research and Extension Center.

Join us to learn how to make quality hay and make it pay in your operation

LOCAL PRODUCER SPEAKERS

The conference will also feature local producer speaker from your area. Join us to hear from these practitioners as they share how they make, buy, and use hay strategically within their operations.

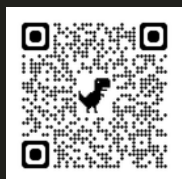

DR. JESSICA WILLIAMSON

Jessica Williamson, Ph.D., is the hay and forage specialist for AGCO Corp.(maker of Massey Ferguson). In this role, Williamson conducts field trials and research evaluating the impact of various hay production practices on forage yield and quality.

Before joining AGCO, Williamson served as the extension forage crops specialist and assistant professor of Forage Management at the Pennsylvania State College of Agricultural Sciences in University Park, Pennsylvania.
